

Senator Counts Empty Beds In TB Hospitals

LANSING (AP)—The State Appropriations Committee cocked its pruning shears at the state's tuberculosis hospitals today as the 1955 legislative session went into its fourth week.

Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), the committee chairman, said he was aghast at the number of empty beds in the institutions and the fact that Gov. Williams' budget was proposing funds for more occupants and more employees.

Only 484 of 833 Used
Porter said the four state TB hospitals have space for 833 patients but that only 484 beds are filled. The governor has asked for funds for 595 occupants for next year, Porter said, despite the fact that the four have steadily declined in use during the past year.

The four institutions have 457 employees—"almost one for every patient," Porter said, but the governor has asked for 508 employees in the next budget.

"I hesitate to advocate that we close one of these institutions," Porter said, "but we've got to do something. This situation is especially serious when you consider there are 12,660 acceptable beds available in county institutions for the tubercular and that 2,771 of them were vacant in December."

Reconvene Tonight
Porter said the Howell State Sanatorium has 350 available beds, 228 employees and 220 patients. The budget asked for 115 patients and 92 employees.

The Hancock institution, Porter said, has 105 beds, 57 employees and 60 patients. The budget asked for 80 patients and 63 employees, he said.

The Kalamazoo Sanatorium, Porter said, has 220 beds, 95 employees and 123 patients. The budget asked for the money for 150 patients and 113 employees.

The legislative audit and appropriations committees probably will be asked to make long-range recommendations for saving money in these institutions, the committee head said.

The House and Senate will return tonight at 8 p. m. after a weekend recess.

Moscow Sends Feeler To Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—With Formosa holding the world spotlight, Russia over the weekend offered to discuss resumption of normal relations with Japan, and the Japanese government cautiously considered the idea.

"I want the Soviet Union to declare first the state of war existing with Japan is ended, after which we can advance talk of normalizing relations," said Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama.

The unsigned Russian note was made public in Moscow and Tokyo Sunday. It said, "The Soviet side believes it would be expedient to exchange views on the question of possible steps aimed at the normalization of the Soviet-Japanese relations." It added that negotiations could be held in either Moscow or Tokyo and asked for Japanese ideas on this score.

Hatoyama forged ahead with plans to answer the note. He told a news conference a courtesy reply would be drafted "as soon as possible" and a definite decision on policy toward Russia might be determined at a Cabinet meeting Friday.

Orders Awaited By 7th Fleet To Evacuate Tachens

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The combat-ready U. S. 7th Fleet needed only a "go ahead" today to evacuate the Communist-threatened Tachens Islands, already blasted by Red fire bombs.

However, Adm. Felix B. Stump, commander of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, said on a quick visit to this Chinese Nationalist capital Sunday that an evacuation had not been ordered.

Unconfirmed Chinese press reports said the garrison of 15,000 men was under Defense Ministry orders to prepare for a bitter stand if the Communists should attack before the evacuation takes place, as many observers here expect them to do.

Adm. Stump, meanwhile, was flying back to his Pearl Harbor headquarters after a quick trip to Taipei and an unheralded conference with top American commanders in Tokyo.

While here he told a news conference that "any time American forces are attacked anywhere they will defend themselves."

Girl In Brown Mystery Clue In Rubinstein Death

NEW YORK (AP)—A mysterious girl, dressed in brown, reportedly was seen wandering about Serge Rubinstein's lavish home some hours before he was murdered.

Both Rubinstein's mother and aunt told of seeing the girl, police disclosed Sunday, but so far they have turned up no hint as to her identity.

Today's investigation of the five-day-old murder will include questioning of Lee Brooks, a dealer in Canadian securities, police said.

Brooks had clashed with the slain draft dodger in a complex oil deal, police reported. In 1947 Brooks was questioned about the unsolved murder of businessman Albert E. Langford.

While police have been following up all possible angles of Rubinstein's social and business life, the body has been on view for two days at a Manhattan funeral home. He is to be buried today after Jewish funeral services.

It was at the funeral home that Rubinstein's mother disclosed she had heard angry voices arguing in her son's rooms early Thursday, shortly before he was killed. Mrs. Stella Rubinstein, 78, lived on the fourth floor of her son's 5th Avenue mansion, one floor above the bedroom in which he was strangled to death.

Mrs. Rubinstein had gone into the hallway to check on a noise, and had seen the girl on the stairway. She didn't look like the kind of girl who belonged there, police said the mother remarked.

Robber Kills 3 In Home Ambush, Sets House Afire

MOUNT PLEASANT, Tenn. (AP)—Charred evidence indicated today Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Moore and their guest walked one at a time into a deadshot ambush Saturday night.

Each had bullet holes in the face or head. The three bodies were sprawled in the charred living room of the Moores' home, a scant two steps from the front door. Police said the motive probably was robbery.

Guest Shot First
As police chief Clare McAfee figured it, this much could be assumed:

First came the guest, a jovial bachelor farmer, James Cooper, 47 who customarily watched wrestling on television with the Moores on Saturday nights.

He arrived at Moore's hardware store a little before closing time and then went on to the house to wait for the Moores there.

About 45 minutes later Moore drove up, let his wife out at the front door, then put his pickup truck in the garage at the rear while she went in.

A little later some boys saw flames flickering inside and notified the fire department. Firemen put out the blaze but did not know anyone was in the house until they forced open the front door and stumbled over the bodies.

No Evidence
Moore, 56, had two pistol bullet holes — apparently of .32-caliber size — in his head, and Mrs. Moore, 53, and Cooper each had one. All had on outdoor clothing.

A coroner's jury said they were murdered. Police found no pistol, no stray bullets, no bloodstains. Fire Chief J. E. Hardison said there was no evidence of arson, "but to catch as fast as it did, it had to be set."

After a check of the store's receipts, Homer Copeland, assistant police chief, said the Moores probably were carrying $500 to $600.

Airliner Crash-Lands In Field At Night; 41 Aboard All Safe

COAL CITY, Ill. (AP)—"I kept losing altitude and decided I would have to come down at the Joliet airport. Then I knew I wouldn't be able to make it. It was dark below, but I had no choice."

Thus Capt. Edward Kuhn, pilot, told of his decision to crash-land an airliner with 41 persons aboard into a farmer's bean field early yesterday. None of the five crew members or 36 passengers, all military personnel, were injured.

The Southeast Airlines' twin-engine C46 was chartered to fly the 36 soldiers from Camp Kilmer, N.J., to Ft. Ord, Calif., and the Oakland, Calif., Army base.

Kuhn, 30, of Miami Springs, Fla., a former Air Force combat jet pilot, said the plane developed engine trouble near Bloomington, Ill., about 180 miles southwest of Chicago.

He turned back toward Chicago, he said, but with the one engine out he gradually lost altitude until he was down to 100 feet. He decided to belly-land, without wheels.

"All the odds are against you when you come down nowhere in the middle of the night like that," he said.

Must Put Faith In Eisenhower, Congress Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said today international affairs have reached the stage where members of Congress must "put our faith in President Eisenhower" to reach a settlement of world problems without war.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was "standing behind the President" on U.S. support of a United Nations effort to end hostilities between the Chinese Nationalists and Communists in the area of Formosa.

Although he said this move implies "the recognition of the existence of two Chinas," Mansfield said he is willing to follow Eisenhower's lead in the matter.

Although Mansfield and all other Senators announcing a stand have opposed a U.N. seat for Red China, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said Sunday night that eventually must come.

"The ultimate political settlement of the China problem," Douglas told the New York University School of Law, "involves recognition of two Chinas and the grant of seats in the United Nations to both of them."

Electronic Eye Scans Alaskan Skies For Enemy Bombers

AN EARLY WARNING RADAR STATION, Alaska (AP)—From this weird, mountaintop site, where an electronic eye scans the skies in ceaseless vigil, may come the first alarm to the United States that enemy bombers are on the way.

For obvious reasons, the precise location may not be disclosed. But one may say that it is in western Alaska, and one in a network of similar stations across the northland.

Deep Alaskan Snow Saves Parachuter In 1000-Foot Fall

ELMENDORF AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska (AP)—Pvt. Stanley Melczak's parachute failed to open and he fell 1,000 feet — without breaking a bone.

He landed hard on his back in deep snow.

The 20-year-old paratrooper with the 11th Airborne Division was reported recovering at the Ft. Richardson hospital today.

Melczak, of Pittsburgh, Pa., jumped with other paratroopers over Taktetna during the Operation Snowbird maneuver Saturday. From his hospital bed, he said today he didn't realize his main chute had failed to open until he was too close to the ground.

He yanked open his reserve chute but he said it began to unfold only a "breath" before he hit in 38 inches of snow.

New Propaganda Move Launched By Reds In U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Russia confronted the U.N. Security Council today with a demand that United States withdraw its armed forces immediately from the Formosa area and that Chiang Kai-shek surrender the coastal Chinese islands to the Communists.

The demand was contained in a cease-fire condition in a Soviet draft resolution circulated to delegations as the Council gathered to discuss how to halt hostilities in the Formosa Strait and how to prevent a major conflict from developing.

Smoke Screen Indicated

There was speculation here that Russia might spell out its demand for evacuation of all islands and "other territories belonging to China" to include Nationalist China's surrender not only of the Tachens, Matsu and Quemoy but of Formosa itself and the Pescadoes Islands, which United States has pledged to protect.

The United States called the Soviet demand a propaganda move designed to confuse and divert serious efforts to halt the fighting.

A dispute over including the Soviet resolution on the agenda under its title language of "U. S. Acts of Aggression Against the Chinese People's Republic in the Taiwan Formosa Area and Other Islands of China" threatened to delay the Council in its majority act of getting off an invitation to Red China to send representatives here for the Formosa debate.

The U.N. Charter requires both sides in a dispute be invited to be represented. If Red China does send spokesmen, she will not have a vote.

Placed On Agenda

Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand ambassador and Security Council president for January—Peru's Victor A. Belandue, takes over tomorrow in alphabetical succession—prepared today's agenda containing only the item agreed on by the Western powers.

It was entitled "Question of Hostilities in the Area of Certain Islands off the Coast of the Mainland of China." Munro told reporters it was intended to stop fighting in the islands from the Tachens to and including Quemoy but did not deal with Formosa and the Pescadoes. They were not included, he said, because the hostilities were in the other islands.

Russia's Arkady Sobolev was expected to demand not only that

Clash Dies Out In Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Tension between Costa Rica and Nicaragua appeared to be subsiding again today after a border clash between Costa Rican troops and rebel remnants raised the fear of more trouble with Nicaragua.

The general staff alerted all reservists after the clash Saturday but Col. Rodolfo Quiros, army chief of staff, said Sunday night he believed the situation was calming down.

Quiros said the government patrol killed 10 rebels, while seven government troops were unaccounted for and one was interned in Nicaragua when he strayed over the border.

The reserves had been released Friday after a victory parade marking the defeat of the recent two-week revolt.

Gramlich Ends Farm Career

A career of more than 40 years in agricultural work will come to an end today with the retirement of Howard J. Gramlich, director of agricultural development of the Chicago and North Western Railway System. Gramlich has spoken to various clubs in Escanaba numerous times.

Eleven years ago this month, Gramlich came to the North Western to serve as general agricultural agent, working with widely varied agricultural interests throughout the nine states served by the railway.

Previously he had been secretary of the American Shorthorn Breeders Association for four years. Prior to 1938 he was a member of the staff of the University of Nebraska's department of animal husbandry for 20 years, serving as chairman of the department for all but the first two years.

In the drought years of 1934 and 1935, he served as government adviser in Washington, D. C. for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. As a student of agriculture and all its phases, he has visited every state in the Union as well as Canada, Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, and France to study agricultural conditions.

Travelling continually, Gramlich has become widely known as a speaker on agricultural problems and plans to continue speaking to groups throughout the country. In recent years he has also acquired a reputation for the accuracy of his national crop forecasts, predicting the final crop yield within a few bushels of the final department of agriculture figures.

In his association with the North Western, Gramlich has worked closely with 4-H club groups in each state. Each year the North Western sponsors cash awards to youngsters in nine states for their proficiency in 4-H work and entertains them at a breakfast during the International Live Stock Exposition. This last year Gramlich was made an honorary member of the Nebraska 4-H club, one of few men to be honored in this way.

Gramlich is a member of a number of clubs and organizations. These include: past president, Chicago Farmers Club; past member, Board of Directors, National Safety Council; past chairman, Agricultural Council, Chicago Association of Commerce; past president, American Society of Animal Production, and member of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Invisible Truck Driver Turns Out To Be Boy, 6

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Two policemen whipped their cruiser around Sunday and pulled alongside a truck, moving down the street with no visible driver.

When they saw a tuft of hair sticking up where a driver usually sits, one of the officers jumped from the squad car to the slowly moving truck.

The 6-year-old driver said he got tired of walking so had climbed into the parked truck and drove off.

He was released to his parents, who whisked him homeward so fast the officers didn't have time to find out how he learned to drive.

Parents Donate Dead Boy's Skin For Burned Girl

CINCINNATI (AP)—The parents of a boy who had donated his skin in the hopes that a girl may live a happy and normal life. His parents, Walker and Audrey Wilson, were told about Sherry Cassada, 7, who was critically burned a year ago when her skirt went up in flames. Burns covered more than 70 per cent of her body.

Twice doctors grafted a small amount of her remaining skin onto the burned portions of her body. This cut loss of precious body fluids and possibility of infection, her doctors said.

More skin grafts have failed because her impaired health has made her unburned skin unsuitable for grafting.

Ronnie and Sherry had rooms side by side at the hospital. But they never met.

The doctors told the Wilsons their son's skin could help the blue-eyed blonde, daughter of Irene and James Cassada of Cincinnati. Some of the outer layer of skin from the boy's body was removed within two hours after his death.

The skin was stretched carefully on gauze, rolled, suspended in a sterile jar and placed in refrigeration.

Today it will be grafted to Sherry's exposed flesh. The growth will not be permanent, said the doctors, who asked that their names not be used, but it may live for a few weeks or several months. In the meantime, Sherry's health may be improved to the point where her own skin may be used.

Woman Still Is Unconscious

IRON MOUNTAIN—Mrs. Frances Olson, 38, Iron Mountain, was still unconscious Monday morning and in critical condition from a fractured skull, sustained in a fall from a moving car in Iron Mountain early Friday morning.

The driver of the car, Glenn R. Somerville, 27, of 1608 Morrow street, Green Bay, is still being held in the Dickinson county jail on an open charge. He was arrested a short time after the accident and admitted to city police that he was the driver of the car.

John V. Zanardi, county prosecutor, said that he plans on issuing a warrant against Somerville, charging the Green Bay man with leaving the scene of an accident in which a personal injury was involved. If the charge is regarded as a felony, Zanardi said, it carries a penalty, under Michigan statutes, of from one to five years in a state prison, a fine of up to $5,000, or both.

City police, who came upon Mrs. Olson lying unconscious on Stephenson avenue, about 20 or 25 minutes after she fell from the moving car, said Somerville was travelling about 22 miles an hour when Mrs. Olson fell out the right front door. Police said that Somerville and Mrs. Olson had struck up an acquaintance at an Iron Mountain tavern. Mrs. Olson fell from the car shortly after they left the tavern together, enroute to her home, Somerville, according to police, failed to stop and assist the woman, but returned to the motel where he was arrested.

Somerville is a salesman for the Home Sewing Center, Sheridan Road, Escanaba.

How To Choose Satins

by Melton McGovern, Graduate of National Institute of Dry Cleaning.

If you familiarize yourself with the several types of satins on the market, you'll avoid trouble.

Satins are, of course, valued for their lustre.

The oldest and probably still the best way to give lustre to satins is by rubbing. At the factory, this is done by "calendering"—polishing the fabric between smooth cylinders.

Or the lustre may be a combination of sizing and polishing.

Or it may be merely sprayed on, as in the so-called "lacquered" satins.

This last type of satin is often unserviceable. Therefore, whether you encounter it as yardage or as trimming on a ready made garment, you'd be smart to be cautious.

Another type of satin recently introduced on the market is the so-called "hammered" satin. Pretty—until it's cleaned, then the embossed design is no longer there, or reduced.

WHY NOT ASK THE MERCHANT WHAT KIND OF SATIN IT IS, AND WHETHER HE RECOMMENDS IT? If he won't, you may be smart to avoid it.

Lustre is restored to satins both by means of special "sizing" as well as repeated ironing back and forth.

On good satin, the lustre usually can be restored.

You see, cleaning is more than getting the soil out, and no cleaner in the world can ever make a garment any better than it was to begin with.

But whether it's a satin or any other garment you own, you'll be better pleased if you'll

Soil Inoculation Curbs Insect Life

URBANA, Ill. (P)—Many crop insects now can be controlled by insecticides applied to soil at planting time. This fact is confirmed by a second year of experiments conducted by Dr. Harlow B. Mills, chief of the Illinois Natural History Survey of the University of Illinois.

The materials used in the experiments were dieldrin, aldrin, lindane and heptachlor.

Insects affected by soil treatments in cornfields included corn seed beetle, corn seed maggot, grope colaspis, wireworms and white grubs. The study showed that treated areas had larger yields than untreated areas in about four-fifths of the experimental cornfields.

Reductions of insects in garden crops were evident in onion and cabbage plots treated with aldrin. Turnip plots were successfully treated with heptachlor. Damage by bacterial scab, a gladiolus disease, was reduced by treating the soil for white grubs which are suspected of spreading it.

Dr. R. C. Kedzie, who became professor of chemistry at Michigan State College in 1863, imported the first sugar beets into Michigan.

Poker Chips Save Money In Schools

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (P)—At a meeting of the Springfield Board of Education, E. J. Carmony asked "What in the world are poker chips used for in the schools?"

Before him was a bill for $2.83 for poker chips.

E. E. Forrer, schools business manager, explained that "the little kids" often lost their lunch money before noon. So now they swap it for poker chips in the morning when they come to school. "Losing poker chips—in this case—is a lot better than losing real money," he observed.

The theme of Michigan State College's 1955 Centennial year is a quotation from Lincoln's Gettysburg Address: "It is for us the living . . . to be dedicated here to the unfinished work."

Entire Nation Backs President In His Stand On Formosa Issue

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has made it perfectly clear to the people of the United States and to the world he will go to any reasonable length to prevent war in the Far East but that he will not make the United States a party to a "deal" for peace which would be primarily advantageous to Red China and Soviet Russia and would, as Senator Knowland puts it, "pour more free territory down the Communist drain."

A salient fact in the Formosa crisis is the practically unanimous endorsement by both houses of Congress of the President's Far East policy as outlined in his message to Congress. There never has been a more dramatic demonstration of national solidarity and bipartisan unity.

This newspaper believes the vote of confidence given the President by Congress reflects a nationwide feeling that his plan of procedure is right and that he can be trusted not to commit our armed forces into a shooting war unless that becomes the only alternative.

The President suggest in effect that we will fight if we must; that he will use our armed forces in whatever manner is necessary to protect the American lines of defense in the Far East.

All the nations of the world, free and otherwise, clearly understand the President's policy and they certainly cannot fail to understand that his countrymen are standing solidly behind him.

The President has asked the United Nations to tackle the Formosa problem and make every effort to solve it. What chance there will be of the UN effecting a cease fire truce should be revealed in the days immediately ahead. Statements in Washington by leaders in Congress indicate a possibility that the United States may finally approved of recognition of two Chinas, but the manner in which Mr. Eisenhower is now being upheld leaves no likelihood that the United States will retreat from its position that Formosa must be defended and we will not stand by and permit Red China to overrun that area.

When and how," asks a Chicago reader, "did the word caboose originate?"

A good question, and one that stumped me at first. You would think "caboose" a characteristic bit of American railroad jargon, perhaps derived, like vamoose and hoosegow, from Spanish by way of Mexico. But that proves not to be the case. Caboose was originally a Dutch word, or rather two Dutch words, "kaban huis," meaning cabin house or ship's galley. In time the two words blended into one, kabuys, and even before our Revolutionary War, the term caboose was commonly used on British ships to designate the cook's quarters.

The word has been traced back as far as 1862 in its current American meaning of the last or trainmen's car on a freight train. Incidentally, it has never been used by British railroaders. To them a caboose is a "brake-van."

"Is it correct to say," asks a Yucaipa, Calif. reader, "I am prejudiced in favor of the Republican Party?" I have heard a radio commentator use it but a teacher friend says it is incorrect. I think it is a good statement. It certainly is to the point.

Some authorities on correct usage maintain that "prejudice" may only be used in an unfavorable sense—that is, one must always be prejudiced against something, never for something. The assertion was often made in the early days of this century—when language proprieties were perhaps more closely observed than they are today—that one might be "partial" or "predisposed" in favor of a person or thing but never "prejudiced."

Actually there was never any linguistic basis for this "rule." "Prejudice" comes from the Latin prefix "prae," before, and "judicium," judgement and merely means a preconceived idea—either favorable or unfavorable. So both etymology and today's usage support my correspondent. If she wishes to be prejudiced in favor of the Republican Party, that is not only her civil right—but perfectly acceptable English.

The only trouble with not having any enemies; who would you blame for the troubles you bring on yourself?

Sir Charles Mendel once complimented Fannie Brice, assuring her, "You're really beautiful, you know." "Don't give me that," jeered Miss Brice. "I mean it," insisted Sir Charles. "You have beautiful bones." "Ha!" "Maybe that's why I've been attracting such dogs all my life."

A pawnbroker loaded his show window with unredeemed saxophones, banjos, tubas—and shotguns. "Very interesting display," commented a friend, "but does it sell merchandise?" "Does it?" enthused the pawnbroker. "One day a fellow buys a sax or a tuba. Two days later his neighbors buy the shotguns."

My young Jonathan wonders if you know what happened to the man who sat up all night trying to figure out what happened to the sun when it set? It finally dawned on him.

The President has wisely assured Congress that he alone, as commander in chief, will make the decision as to when measures of retaliation against an attacking force will be ordered. For it will be within his power to order American forces to repel attack and also to go as far as necessary in pursuit of enemy planes. Had the U. S. forces been given that right, they would have won a victory in Korea.

There is nothing spectacular about our methods," says a member of Interpol's staff. "It's purely administrative, nothing exciting. Contrary to what so many people think, we have no helicopter in our parking lot to hop into when we have picked up the tracks of a criminal. What is more, we never make an arrest and there is no such thing as an 'international' police with powers to arrest a man wanted in another country."

He went on to explain that a warrant had to be supplied before any individual could be put in jail. But last year the Council of Europe passed a motion granting the right to arrest a man on presentation of Interpol's "red index."

International criminals are classified several ways. Apart from the "red index" there is the "black index" which covers unidentified corpses in rail, air or road accidents, in fires or washed up by the sea. In such a case the corpse is fingerprinted and dentures checked by the local police. These details are then circulated, starting with Interpol in Paris.

There is also an alphabetical and phonetic index, with a criminal's name and (sometimes as many as six aliases) spelled according to French pronunciation. "Circulars" are sent out in English and French, which are Interpol's official languages.

Women do not figure to a large extent in Interpol files, where their dossiers are indicated by a tiny black tab. Their rackets are mainly bigamy or obtaining money by false pretenses. Most interesting case is that of 57-year-old Gloria G. She is known to have "married" no less than eight men, in the U.K. and the Commonwealth, using of course a different name each time.

A footnote to her file reads: "Levels in limelight, is a good conversationalist, a keen gambler and a plausible liar. Her fatal attraction for men is difficult to understand given her weight and appearance (no glamor girl, she weighs around 180 pounds). She lives in the best hotels, entertains lavishly and does not associate with the criminal class. She gets away with money most times."

Next: Two swindlers and 6000 miles.

So long as times are like they are, I'm going to vote to levy taxes and appropriate money so that no international desperado will dare attack us.—House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D, Tex.).

A special tribute is due to those in France who saw that patriotism required the burying of age-old hostilities. That this could happen is a good omen for the years ahead.—Secretary of State Dulles on French O. K. of German arms.

There have been attacks on the Administration's foreign policy by some who ought to know better. I believe that these attacks will be overwhelmingly repudiated by both the Democrats and Republicans in the new Congress.—Rep. Daniel Reed (R, N. Y.).

By 1980, industrial concerns will no longer even think in terms of race, religion or nationality when they hire or promote their employees.—Pollster Elmo Roper.

Mechanism and materialism have intimidated the world of scholarship all too long. It is about time the academicians stopped using the word "spirit" apologetically.—Dr. Joseph Mayer, economics professor, Miami (Ohio) U.

Today And Tomorrow

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Seldom in the history of the United States Senate has there been an address of statesmanship comparable to that delivered by Senator Walter George of Georgia, Democrat, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, as he upheld President Eisenhower's request for unrestricted authority to use the armed forces to defend Formosa and the American defense line in the Far East.

In contrast to the petty quibbles of some of his colleagues and the narrow interpretations which they interjected to hamstringing the American armed forces if they should be attacked from the small islands off the coast of China, the Georgia senator made clear in his speech that this is not the time to give the enemy a privileged sanctuary of retreat, as was the case in Korea.

Such Americanism is a thrilling exhibition of the spirit that has governed the nation in all its past crises. It was especially stimulating to hear this doctrine from the lips of this senator—a veteran in experience in foreign affairs—as he cast aside all partisanship and focused on the central issue.

DETERRENT TO WAR

For, instead of leading to a "preventive war"—which is the smoke-screen raised against all proper defense measures whenever it suits critics to use that term to break down American firmness—Senator George showed how the American policy could deter the aggressor, prevent a big war from happening, and insure peace.

"I ask each man here," declared Senator George, "if the Congress of the United States is willing to withhold its moral support from the President of the United States under these circumstances, what is your alternative? I ask each man what is his alternative?"

This was a challenging point addressed to the restrictionists—those who would, in effect, notify the enemy that American ships could be fired on and that the American congress was unwilling to vote the authority to fire back.

Senator George's most telling point—and one that was persuasively presented, too, by Senator Knowland, Republican leader, in the previous day's debate—is that nobody knows from what point Formosa might be attacked and that it is imperative to notify the Red Chinese there would be unrestricted retaliation.

FULL PROTECTION ASSURED

The effectiveness of the resolution is that it tells the whole world America not only will defend Formosa but will not hesitate to bomb the approaches within a radius of several hundred miles if such a step becomes necessary to protect American ships and military installations.

The same old cry—which has been heard again and again in instances of appeasement, or in episodes in which there has been a fateful hesitation—has been repeated this week in the Senate. It is that the passage of the resolution might bring on war. Risks are always present in the evolution of international policy, but an unwillingness to make a clear statement of what counter-force will be brought to bear against an attacking force can only lead, as it has many times before, to an outbreak of a major war. The "London Daily Mail" in an editorial says that such a clear warning as President Eisenhower can give by means of the joint resolution might—if issued before 1914 and 1939—have prevented two world wars.

More and more members of the Senate have begun to see the joint resolution not as a narrow legalistic instrument of international policy but as a pronouncement on a moral issue—to make the aggressors respect the neutrality of Formosa. For Formosa today has not been given to the regime on the mainland because it has violated international obligations, including a flagrant act of aggression in Korea.

The Chiang Kai-shek government is still the recognized government of China so far as the United States is concerned. Under international law, any request for military help from a recognized government is granted in accord with tradition and custom.

So the resolution now before Congress meets all the requirements of international law and at the same time protects the right of the United States to protect its military position in the Far East. Some people in the Senate have forgotten that it was from Formosa that the Japanese planes launched their attack which caused our defeat in the Philippines in 1942. Had America been able to dominate the air a few hundred miles around Formosa, the surrender at Bataan would never have occurred.

The President has wisely assured Congress that he alone, as commander in chief, will make the decision as to when measures of retaliation against an attacking force will be ordered. For it will be within his power to order American forces to repel attack and also to go as far as necessary in pursuit of enemy planes. Had the U. S. forces been given that right, they would have won a victory in Korea.

Spelling It Out for Us

International Dragnet Nabs Criminals Throughout World

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS—(NEA)—International smugglers, counterfeiters and narcotic peddlers, as well as assorted crooks, thieves, bigamists and murderers who eventually find themselves behind bars are seldom aware they were tracked down by an organization known as the "International Criminal Police Commission"—"Interpol" for short.

The international criminal is a product of the times and it was his existence that brought about the birth of Interpol, with headquarters in Paris. Economic conditions resulting from two world wars, movements of population, and today's fast travel, made it necessary to establish an international organization based on the principle of official police co-operation between countries.

Interpol began its active career in Vienna in 1923. By 1938 there were 34 member countries, but World War II put it out of business.

After the war the problem of international common law crime became even more acute. In 1946 F. E. Louwage, Inspector General in the Belgium Ministry of Justice, suggested that Interpol be re-established with headquarters in Paris. Eighteen European countries, plus the U.S.A., responded immediately. Today Interpol groups 49 member countries spread over the four continents.

The first goal of the new Interpol was to rebuild its archives, which the Nazis had removed to Berlin early in 1941. Practically all the files had been lost or destroyed by bombing.

Now housed in a wing of the newly-built annex of the Ministry of Interior, Interpol operates with a relatively small staff of 30 civil servants, all trained in the police service, and five women secretaries.

Only members of the staff have access to the two offices which contain Interpol's archives, which hold the records of 10,000 international criminals—their case history, photographs and fingerprints. There is also a "synoptic" file specially adapted to Interpol's requirements. All are burglarproof as well as fireproof.

An average of 10 queries come into the headquarters daily, and usually it is only a matter of a few minutes to trace the criminal. Then messages are radioed over the network used solely by the International Police. Sixteen stations link up the major European capitals, besides one at Tel-Aviv and another in Tangiers. Communications with Oslo, Vienna and Munich are by teleprinter.

"There is nothing spectacular about our methods," says a member of Interpol's staff. "It's purely administrative, nothing exciting. Contrary to what so many people think, we have no helicopter in our parking lot to hop into when we have picked up the tracks of a criminal. What is more, we never make an arrest and there is no such thing as an 'international' police with powers to arrest a man wanted in another country."

He went on to explain that a warrant had to be supplied before any individual could be put in jail. But last year the Council of Europe passed a motion granting the right to arrest a man on presentation of Interpol's "red index."

International criminals are classified several ways. Apart from the "red index" there is the "black index" which covers unidentified corpses in rail, air or road accidents, in fires or washed up by the sea. In such a case the corpse is fingerprinted and dentures checked by the local police. These details are then circulated, starting with Interpol in Paris.

There is also an alphabetical and phonetic index, with a criminal's name and (sometimes as many as six aliases) spelled according to French pronunciation. "Circulars" are sent out in English and French, which are Interpol's official languages.

Women do not figure to a large extent in Interpol files, where their dossiers are indicated by a tiny black tab. Their rackets are mainly bigamy or obtaining money by false pretenses. Most interesting case is that of 57-year-old Gloria G. She is known to have "married" no less than eight men, in the U.K. and the Commonwealth, using of course a different name each time.

A footnote to her file reads: "Levels in limelight, is a good conversationalist, a keen gambler and a plausible liar. Her fatal attraction for men is difficult to understand given her weight and appearance (no glamor girl, she weighs around 180 pounds). She lives in the best hotels, entertains lavishly and does not associate with the criminal class. She gets away with money most times."

Next: Two swindlers and 6000 miles.

So They Say

So long as times are like they are, I'm going to vote to levy taxes and appropriate money so that no international desperado will dare attack us.—House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D, Tex.).

The evidence of higher hospital incidence or morbidity rates of males strongly implies they are the sicklier and more hospitalized sex.—Dr. Frank Dickinson, director, Public Health Service.

U. S. forces are ready to use atomic weapon if they are needed.—Admiral Radford, chairman, U. S. joint chiefs of staff.

A special tribute is due to those in France who saw that patriotism required the burying of age-old hostilities. That this could happen is a good omen for the years ahead.—Secretary of State Dulles on French O. K. of German arms.

There have been attacks on the Administration's foreign policy by some who ought to know better. I believe that these attacks will be overwhelmingly repudiated by both the Democrats and Republicans in the new Congress.—Rep. Daniel Reed (R, N. Y.).

By 1980, industrial concerns will no longer even think in terms of race, religion or nationality when they hire or promote their employees.—Pollster Elmo Roper.

Mechanism and materialism have intimidated the world of scholarship all too long. It is about time the academicians stopped using the word "spirit" apologetically.—Dr. Joseph Mayer, economics professor, Miami (Ohio) U.

I say that both (political) parties are patriotic. Both parties are for peace.—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R, Wis.).

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—U. S. Information Agency has been picking up from refugees escaping Communist countries some of the gags being told clandestinely behind the Iron Curtain. These stories are broadcast by Voice of America and distributed through the U. S. international press service to spread the news of actual conditions in Soviet Russia and the satellite countries. "Often these stories get more attention than straight news," says a USIA official.

One story making the rounds in East Germany concerns a local Communist Party secretary who calls on the manager of an East German tractor station.

"You will see to it, Comrade, that all your Soviet tractors are placed at the service of the refugee farmers fleeing from the capitalists in West Germany," said the secretary.

"But Comrade Secretary," protested the manager, "we have only three Soviet tractors, and they are all out of order."

"That doesn't matter," said the secretary, "The farmers aren't returning."

A JOKE CURRENTLY circulating in Budapest concerns the Hungarian secret police who arrested two citizens but shortly thereafter released one of them. Before the freed man left the police station he managed to ask the man who was detained:

"For heaven's sake! What did you confess to?"

"I confessed I bought sugar on the black market."

"Why did you confess that?"

"I couldn't help it. The man who questioned me had sold me the sugar."

FROM A CZECHOSLOVAK refugee, USIA picked up the story of a professor who asked a student in his class:

"Who wrote 'War and Peace'?"

"I don't know, but I didn't," stammered the scared student.

Later the professor told a friend about the student's reply when he had been asked who wrote the great Tolstoy novel.

The friend, however, was not greatly surprised and said, "Well, I didn't do it either."

The professor then told his story a third time to a man in the secret police. He made no comment but jotted down the names of the student and the professor's friend.

Two days later the professor received a phone call from the police official who told him not to worry. The case had been closed. The professor was puzzled. The policeman explained, "You know, the student and your friend. We arrested them both yesterday, and they both confessed."

CIVIL AERONAUTICS Administrator F. B. Lee says absent-mindedness caused many of the 3000 small-plane accidents investigated by CAA last year. To prove his point he released some of the excuses pilots have given for their accidents.

Wrote one flier who had taxied his plane into another aircraft for no apparent reason: "As I taxied up to the front of the hangar, I was looking at a giant spiderweb, about 60 feet long, attached to the other plane. I was so amazed at this that I forgot what I was doing and I looked up only in time to see us hit the other ship. I know this sounds like a screwball excuse, but that is the cause of it all."

Then there was the case of the pilot trying to sell an amphibious aircraft. During the demonstration flight, over water, the pilot-salesman was chatting about the merits of the plane as he came in for a sea landing.

"The descent was normal," the pilot reported later. "Then the plane turned over. We climbed out on the wings and discovered the wheels in the down position."

The dripping pilot and his prospective customer made it to shore all right, but it was no sale.

AGRICULTURE SECRETARY Ezra Taft Benson wonders just how far science can go in making improvements on the farm.

"We may be approaching the day when it won't be possible to coax that one additional egg from our top-laying hens," Secretary Benson told the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

Then the Secretary, who is usually a very serious public speaker, cracked that: "Some day the top-producing cow on one of our experimental farms will perhaps cock a disapproving eye at a scientist and say, 'Look! This has gone far enough. You've got the last pint.'"

The Doctor Says... Doctors Are Seeking Cure For Muscular Dystrophy

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Muscular dystrophy is a most peculiar disease which has only recently begun to receive the attention it deserves. Compared with such diseases as measles, muscular dystrophy is of course rather rare but its importance to the one who acquires it or to his family is indeed great.

Almost always the first signs of muscular dystrophy appear early in life. Often it develops so slowly that the difficulty is hardly noticed at first. As one mother wrote about her teen-age boy: "He noticed a certain inability to keep up in sports, about a year ago. Earlier he had been active in hockey and baseball, and also helped on the farm."

ALTHOUGH THERE are several forms of this distressing disease, they are all somewhat similar in showing increasing muscular wasting, weakness, and being considered as a true hereditary disease. The hereditary nature of muscular dystrophy is shown by the fact that nearly half of those who are afflicted with it will have other members of their families showing the

Price Too Low On Sugar Beets

CHILTON, Wis. (P)—Wisconsin sugar beet growers, unhappy over price prospects, were on record Friday as threatening to curtail production in 1955 unless their demands are met.

A spokesman for growers in two southern counties said his district had voted to ask for $9.70 per ton from the refineries as a minimum price and that if they did not get it would raise no beets this year.

The Menominee Sugar Co., Green Bay, and the Superior Sugar Refinery Co., Menominee, Mich., offered a minimum of $9 per ton, scaled upward to $9.70 depending upon the percentage of acreage grown, at a meeting Thursday.

Growers in two other counties have voted to ask $13 per ton, but a spokesman said it was likely they would be willing to compromise.

Wilkowski Denied Seat In Senate

LANSING (P)—The State Supreme Court has ruled that Senator-Elect Anthony J. Wilkowski (D-Detroit) can not fill the Senate seat to which he was elected last Nov. 2.

Wilkowski's petition for a writ of mandamus requiring the lieutenant governor to administer the oath of office to him was denied by the court.

The opinion said the court has no authority to control the actions of the State Senate "acting in its sovereign capacity as part of the law-making department of the state government."

Fellow senators declared on Jan. 12 that Wilkowski was unfit to be seated because of a 1936 conviction for an election recount fraud.

Gov. Williams now will have to call for a special election to fill his seat. The election probably will be called to coincide with the regular spring election.

ODD, BUT DOES THE JOB—This odd-looking snowplow, built of odds and ends by John K. VanRaalte, of Leland, Mich., proves efficient in heavy snowfall. VanRaalte's only cash investment was $4.50 (for hydraulic hose to lift the blade). Car, 1937 vintage, has nine forward speeds. (AP Photo)

Snowplow Costs $4.50; Saves Him Backaches

LELAND, Mich. (P)—Snow shoveling has become child's play for John K. VanRaalte. He's a do-it-yourself fan whose latest product is a mechanical snowplow, built at a total cost of $4.50—plus man-hours.

The device is especially attractive to those who suffer from backache, trembling knees, short breath and spots before the eyes after a bout with the old fashioned snow shovel.

Van Raalte's project began six years ago when he toyed with the idea for a simplified hydraulic system to raise and lower the plow blade. Now the entire unit has been completed and has passed all its tests.

The strange-looking device is a stopper for passersby at VanRaalte's garage.

Its body was taken from a 1937 model auto; the dual tires, rear end and one transmission are from a 1916 tractor; the plow was taken from a scraper at North Manitou Island; the twin exhausts came from a sports car and the hydraulic cylinder once was an air-stop cylinder on a printing press.

The device is built entirely of junk parts except for $4.50 worth of hydraulic hose. There is no other money invested.

Van Raalte reports, however, that there are about 100 manhours logged in construction on the project. He adds:

"It may not be the prettiest snowplow in Michigan, but it really works."

Singer Gene Autry Sues For Ridicule On Comedy Record

HOUSTON (P)—Gene Autry says he's been ridiculed as "Gene Artery" on a phonograph record. The cowboy entertainer Friday filed a suit in Federal Court asking $5,250 in damages. Defendants are Bozo St.Clair, a comedian, and Pete Lout, operator of the Town Lounge in Houston.

The suit alleges that a phonograph recording made by St.Clair in 1953 and sold in the lounge ridiculed Autry and infringed on his copyrighted theme song, "Back in the Saddle Again."

Gas Tax Boost Gains Support

LANSING (P)—The House Friday approved a rule change which will keep Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart off a committee empowered to call the Legislature into emergency session.

Over Democratic objections the House voted 47-33 to exclude the lieutenant governor from the special committee.

Rep. Emil A. Peltz (R-Rogers City) said sentiment is building up among House Republicans in support of his proposal for a referendum on a two-cent gas tax increase.

Under his proposal, the gasoline tax would be raised from 4½ cents to 6½ cents a gallon. Cities, townships, villages and counties could use the increase in tax diversion money to back revenue bonds for highway and street construction.

NO NEED FOR "SECOND SIGHT"

At the end of the following hand North expressed himself rather vehemently on the subject of his partner's play, and South answered tartly: "What! Did you expect me to guess that the trump king was singleton?"

"No," North said bitterly. "I only expect you to have rudimentary ideas about safety plays."

And North "had something." This was the real:

South dealer.		Both sides vulnerable.
		♠ A 4 ♥ 6 5 3 2 ♦ 9 8 5 ♣ K Q J 3
♠ 10 7 6	5 3	♠ J 9	♠ A K Q 10

The bidding:		South	West	North	East
1	♠	Pass	2	♠	2
2	♠	Pass	3	♠	Pass
3	♠	Pass	3	♠	Pass
4	♠	Pass	4	♠	Pass
6	♠	Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the heart jack. South ruffed, went to dummy with a spade and hopefully tried the diamond finesse to his own queen. East, not being a novice, played the four-spot on this trick, and when West smothered the queen with the king, declarer could not avoid the loss of another trump trick.

The correct play in this situation is not open to debate. Declarer should lay down the diamond ace from his own hand. Consider: if the diamond king is in East's hand, where it could have been finessed, declarer has lost nothing material. He will go to dummy with a club or a spade and lead a second diamond toward his queen. The king can win—what of it?—but unless all four of the missing diamonds were banked originally, declarer is safe; and if they were banked, he could not have saved himself by taking the finesse.

The proper cashing of the diamond ace guards against precisely the situation that existed here. Readers will do themselves a service by distributing the missing diamonds in all possible ways and seeing for themselves that the safety play of the ace is infinitely superior to the immediate finesse from dummy to the queen.

1—People in the U. S. spend more than three million dollars a day to read their newspapers.

TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

It's true that people spend 3 million dollars every day to read their newspapers. That amounts to more than a billion dollars every year. And THAT is more money than is spent to buy all other forms of reading matter combined!

2—There are as many newspapers bought every day as there are families in the U. S.

TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

That's right. There are more than 54 million newspapers printed every day which is just slightly less than the number of families in the U. S.

3—More money is spent in newspaper advertising than in television, radio, magazines and billboards combined.

Right again. The advertisers of the products you buy place more of their advertising in newspapers than television, magazines, radio and billboards COMBINED.

True. The advertising in newspapers was "missed most" by people in a major American city when a strike stopped the publishing of all newspapers in that city.

State To Halt Promotion Of Submerged Land

DETROIT (P)—The state attorney general's office today stepped up its drive to halt what it calls illegal real estate development of off-shore lake waters.

The Detroit office, under Asst. Atty. Gen. Nicholas V. Olds, said it will file court petitions for injunctions against eight Lake St. Clair developments.

State-owned submerged land is involved. The extent of it was not made clear. However, it could run into huge figures.

Olds' action followed Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh's weekend announcement that he intends to move against "trespassers" under a half-century old law protecting submerged lands.

Kavanagh said real estate developers and lot owners who have filled in shallow waters for commercial or private use are trespassing.

He said he intends to put a stop to this, determine whether damage suits are in order, and seek new governing legislation.

He said he was acting under an 1899 law providing that all swamp or submerged lands along Lakes Erie, Huron, Superior and St. Clair are state property and shall be set aside for use of the public.

According to the Lands Division of the State Conservation Department, violations have been going on for years. The violators would include yacht clubs and others.

Last year the Legislature, by special enactment, sold 86 acres off the shores of Harbor Beach for $18,000 to the Detroit Edison Co. for construction of a power plant.

The law protecting such land says it should be dedicated to public hunting and fishing. In the Detroit Edison purchase the land was described as of little value for the stated purposes.

Inland Steel Local Officers Suspended For Lavish Spending

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (P)—The CIO United Steel Workers union has suspended all officers of its 14,000-member Inland Steel local on charges of "financial irresponsibility and maladministration."

Local members were notified Saturday of the suspension and of the appointment of Lester H. Thornton as administrator of the local.

Thornton said the local in the past seven years has spent $72,000 more than it received in refunds from the international union. He said the local's monthly income was more than $20,000 but it had less than that amount in its treasury.

Thornton said President Donald L. Lutes and 11 other local officers were suspended because of "continued financial irresponsibility and maladministration over a period of years."

Chemical Workers Strike At Wyandotte

DETROIT (P)—The United Mine Workers union called its 2,300 members out on strike today at the Wyandotte Chemical Co. in a dispute over compulsory overtime.

The independent union's contract expired at 11 p.m. Sunday and the strike was called under the UMW's no-contract no-work policy. The United Mine Workers are John L. Lewis' union.

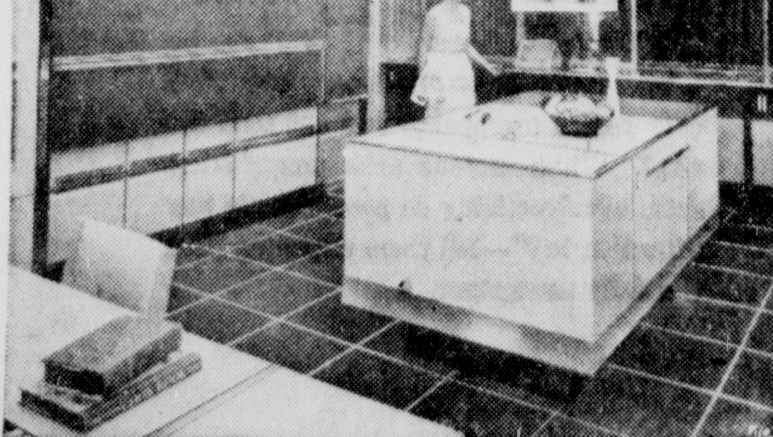

Local 12270 represents the Wyandotte workers. The local approved a strike by a margin of 977 to 924.

The expired contract prohibited the company from requiring employees to work overtime against their will. The company wanted to relax this restriction in a new contract and the union refused.

HUNGER CONQUERS FEAR---

Recent heavy snowstorms that blanketed Allegany State Park, near Red House, N. Y., also made grazing impossible for the numerous wild deer in the woods. Hunger overcame their natural timidity and they came out of the woods to beg for food from passers-by. Hundreds of persons flocked to the roads along the woods and spent the day feeding the hungry animals. Many sightseers were disappointed that they didn't see any deer with antlers, but at this time of the year the bucks have none. (Exclusive NEA Photo Feature)

MAY INVITE REDS UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—Sir Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand, president of the U. N. Security Council, proposed today that Red China be invited to send a representative here to take part in the debate on a Formosan cease-fire.

Munro made his proposal immediately after the Council refused to consider a Soviet demand that Nationalist China be barred from the debate.

The New Zealand diplomat suggested that the council suspend its discussions until the Chinese Communists can get a representative here.

The Council ran into its first controversy when Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev tossed in his demand to bar the Chinese Nationalists.

The vote was 10-1, with only the Soviet Union voting to consider excluding Nationalist China.

The move to throw out the Soviet demand was made by Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and quickly drew support of the other Western powers.

The Western power thus won the first round test as the 11-nation council squared off to seek an end to the fighting between Chinese Nationalist and Communist forces.

Ministers Talk Peace In London

LONDON (P)—Prime ministers of the British commonwealth opened a 10-day parley today under the shadow of the Formosa crisis. Urgent talks began immediately on ways to head off the danger of a major Far East war.

Prime Minister Churchill gave a sweeping review of East-West relations shortly after the seven visiting premiers and one deputy premier—representing 575 million people—were assembled in the Cabinet Room of his official residence, No. 10 Downing Street.

Aides said the 80-year-old statesman emphasized the need for a quick China cease-fire to avert a possible collision in Formosa Strait between Red China and the U. S. 7th Fleet.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden joined the premiers conference after leaving the House of Commons, where he told worried British legislators:

"The government will continue to do everything in their power to promote agreement (over the Formosa issue) so that the fighting is stopped in this inflammable situation."

Four Die When Car Hits Train

(By The Associated Press)

Four teenagers whose automobile skidded on ice and collided with a roaring train were among 16 to die in Michigan's weekend traffic.

A brother and two sisters were among the four battered to death in the crash near North Bradley, a community 13 miles west of Midland.

Besides traffic's toll of 16, Michigan counted three dead in miscellaneous accidents. A baby suffocated in its crib. A boy burned to death when flames suddenly enveloped his father's car. A Detroit-er slipped and fell on an egg, fatally injuring himself.

Killed in the car-train wreck were Wallace Graham, 14; Vernon West, 19, and his sisters, Joyce, 16, and Connie, 14, all of North Bradley.

Witnesses said the youngsters' car skidded on ice and was hit broadside by the Chesapeake & Ohio train. The impact carried the automobile almost half a mile down the track.

Patricia Riley, 19, of Trenton, William Runco, 22, of Dearborn, and Runco's 3-year-old stepdaughter, Sherry Lee Klemper, were killed Saturday night in a head-on collision with a car driven by Richard Moore, 20, of Trenton.

The accident occurred on U. S. 24 a mile south of Flat Rock.

A third car, driven by Robert Hersten, 24, of Detroit, piled into Moore's car. Four other persons were injured in the crash.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (P)—Barbara Bobo Rockefeller, ex-wife of millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller, is quarreling with her cousin, a glass factory worker, over the care of Bobo's ill father Julius Pauleskas.

Miss Pauline Pauleskas wants to keep the 68-year-old former coal miner at her Washington, Pa., home. Bobo, residing in New York, told newsmen she would like to see her father placed in a rest home.

"I am interested only in making my father's last days comfortable and his best interests must be the determining factor," said Bobo.

Bobo's father, now recuperating from pneumonia, lived with a brother, Anthony, for 25 years.

Anthony, who was Miss Pauleskas' father, died last year.

Bobo saw her father for the first time in 31 years last April, shortly after he had suffered a heart attack here. He and Bobo's mother were separated when Bobo was 6.

Yells Efficiently To Save Her Purse

NORFOLK, Va. (P)—When a thief snatched the purse of Mrs. Gilberte J. Bonner, a young Frenchwoman, she yelled.

Responding were a police lieutenant, two cars of plain-clothesmen, two cars of uniformed police, a taxicab driver, a man from a grocery store and a car full of sailors—some 30 men. The thief was caught.

"Lady you really can yell," the taxi driver said at the police station.

Spark Sets Off $60,000 Blaze

GRAND RAPIDS (P)—Static electricity from a workman's finger, firemen said, set off a smoke clouded $60,000 fire today at the Vulcanizing Material Corp.

Ten pieces of fire equipment battled the flames which ripped through the two-story brick building on the city's northwest side. No one was injured.

Firemen reported the blaze under control about 11:15 a. m., but were standing by to insure against a fresh outbreak in the stored rubber material.

The company manufactures rubber paint, rubber cement, auto tire boots and related accessories.

Assembly line worker Jack Wingate told officers he removed a piece of tire patching from a cementing machine and placed it on a rack with other completed pieces when a spark jumped from his finger and ignited the fresh rubber cement.

Within seconds, he said, ceiling high flames enveloped the rack and spread quickly through the building's second floor. Wingate and 30 fellow workmen escaped injury.

Old G. A. R. Office Moved In Lansing

LANSING (P)—Crowded by an expanded Legislature, the Michigan headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic moved from its long-time home in the capitol to a new office today.

State workers packed up the dusty records of Michigan's Civil War veterans, their frayed flags and tarnished relics, and carted them off to new quarters in the Spanish War veterans office.

John Gafner, state property manager, said the headquarters had to be moved from its first-floor office in the capitol building because legislators were demanding more office space.

The office, which was set up in the capitol in 1897, will be used for a legislative committee room.

Limping Goose

by Frank Gruber. DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Broke again, Johnny Fletcher, and his pal Sam Cragg, are playing detective to solve the murder of Jess Carmichael III, who was slain in the apartment of Alice Cummings. Johnny and Sam were suspects in the case when they obtained a goose bank from Alice in payment of a long overdue bill. After they managed to see the father of the murder victim, James Sutton, a cousin of Carmichael, offer them a substantial fee to find Lester Smithson, another cousin who disappeared 12 years ago.

XIII
With a sudden snarl of rage, Sam Cragg grabbed the hotel manager by the coat front. "You heard Johnny, didn't you? We're tired and we want to go to bed."

"Unhand me, you—gorilla!" cried Peabody. "This is the last straw. I shall not only lock you out of your room, I shall turn you over to the police."

"On what charge?" snapped Johnny.
"Defrauding an innkeeper," snarled Peabody, still struggling to get out of Sam's grip.

"Let him go, Sam," Johnny said. Then facing Peabody: "Now, see here, I'm getting sick and tired of hearing you harping on that subject. Just how much do you say we owe you?"

"You know very well. It's $36 and it might as well be—"
"Thirty-six dollars," snapped Johnny. "I've got a good notion to pay you and move out of this crummy joint."

"Oh, you're moving, all right," howled Peabody.
"On the other hand," Johnny went on, "I think I'll just pay up and stay here."

"You're doing a lot of talking about paying."
"I always pay my honest debts . . ." He reached into his pocket and brought out a sheaf of bills. "Thirty-six dollars, did you say?"

Peabody gulped as he saw the money. "Wh-where did you get that?"
"This small change? I've always got $36."

"Then why didn't you pay your bill when it was due?"
"Because you didn't ask me nice."

Peabody skimmed through the bills, counting them. "Very well, you made it. But there isn't going to be another time. You'll pay each and every week hereafter, at the end of the week. I've got a good notion to make you pay in advance."

"All I want is the same treatment as your other paying guests," Peabody opened his mouth to complain further, then thought better of it and went back behind his desk. Johnny and Sam rode upstairs.

When the door was closed on them, Johnny said, "I was going to be decent about it and mail him the pawn ticket for his suit, but after the way he's treated us, I ought to tear it up!" He didn't, however.

Hard knuckles pounded the door of Room 821, Johnny rolled over in bed and looked at the door. The knuckles massaged the door panels once more.

"Open up, Fletcher," cried a voice outside the door.
Sam Cragg sat up in bed. "What's the idea, waking a man in the middle of the night?"

Johnny strode to the door. He shot back the bolt and whipped open the door. J. J. Kilkenny, smiling nastily, stepped in. Sam shook his head, let out a roar and started around the bed to get at Kilkenny.

The skip tracer coolly produced a snub-nosed revolver. "I'm not going to skin my knuckles on your fat boy."

"Put down that dingus and I'll twist you into a pretzel."
"Uh-uh," said Kilkenny. He reached back with his foot and shut the door. "Business before pleasure."

"I've got no more business with you," snapped Johnny.
"Oh, yes, you have," sneered Kilkenny. "Remember that money you collected on the skip was $22 short."

"You forgot my $10 commission."
"I applied that on your account," Kilkenny pointed to Sam Cragg with his revolver.

"You've got no right to carry a gun," Johnny said angrily.
"I got a license, that gives me a right."

"Since when are they giving licenses to bill collectors?"
"People threaten me," smirked Kilkenny. "A man's got a right to defend himself. Like now — I got a claim against you birds and if you make a pass at me, I can shoot you. I'm only defending myself."

"I ain't sure that pea-shooter'd even hurt me," said Sam Cragg dolefully. "Don't crowd your luck."
"I'll make this short and sweet," snapped Kilkenny. "You didn't give me all the money that Miss Cummings gave you. I happen to know that she gave you a piggy bank full of small change. I want it."

Johnny's eyes went involuntarily to the dresser where the limping goose bank had stood the day before. Then he recalled having swept it into an open drawer the night before.

Johnny turned his back on the bill collector and headed for the dresser. As he passed Sam, he winked and said quickly in an undertone, "Ready!"

He reached past Sam, pulled open the dresser drawer and took out the bronze limping goose bank.

"Here," he said to Kilkenny, and tossed the bank to him. He threw it to the right of Kilkenny, so the bill collector had to lunge for it with the hand holding the gun. The bank struck the gun and for an instant Kilkenny tried to juggle both the revolver and the limping goose.

Pet Horse Enjoys 'Run' Of The House

Unwarned guests of the Edward G. Goldies, of South Euclid, Ohio, are somewhat surprised when they see a horse come out of the kitchen and walk discreetly through the other rooms. Usually Goldie will introduce Mack, a four-year-old Shetland male, who is full grown, slightly larger than a Great Dane and reliably housebroken. Mack eats carrots, apples, lump sugar and the usual horse fare. Evenings the horse enjoys sidewalk strolling on a leash, led by a member of the family. Goldie bought Mack at the Berea, Ohio, fair.

When it's breakfast time, Mack gives his boss, Edward G. Goldie, a whinny wake-up tap.

Mack joins Goldie when he leaves for his auto agency.

Mack joins Goldie and his wife, Esther, at the breakfast table for orange juice, eggs and hay.

They Wanted A Church-- And Got One

Residents of Rolling Meadows, a new subdivision of Arlington Heights, Ill., turned church-builders when they became determined to have a place to worship in their own community. An old, red barn was remodeled. Lumber and paint were provided by Kimball Hill, a local builder, who also approved the use of the building. The builders poured a concrete floor on the lower level, built a stairway to the hay loft and erected a pulpit and altar for the pastor. The volunteer labor force assembled in October and the church was ready for its first service on Dec. 5. There are 17 denominations represented in the community of 800.

Golden Gloves Tourney Opens Here Tonight

Fights Start At Holy Name Gymnasium, 8:30

The cream of the crop of Upper Peninsula amateur boxers will begin swinging leather in the 13th annual Golden Gloves championship tournament at Holy Name gymnasium at 8:30 tonight.

Fighters from throughout the Peninsula and northern Wisconsin will be battling for the right to represent the U. P. in the 28th Golden Gloves tournament at the Milwaukee Arena Feb. 15. Eight champions in each the novice and open division will be eligible to advance to the Milwaukee Journal tourney.

Record Entry Expected
Sponsored by the Lions Club and the Escanaba Daily Press, the Golden Gloves tournament, this year may break a post-war record for entries. Tournament manager Ken L. Gunderman said this morning that the final entry list will be near 50 boxers.

Attendance also may set a record for recent years as the new Holy Name gymnasium has a 2,000 plus capacity. Tonight's fights will represent the preliminary round with championship bouts scheduled for next Monday night, Feb. 7.

There will be upwards of 20 fights on tonight's program, with the first bout scheduled for 8:30. Ray Mariucci, former Michigan State College boxer, will be the third man in the ring. Judges have been appointed from Escanaba, Manistique and Marquette.

Defending Champions
Tournament officials are anticipating one of the best fields of boxers in recent years with many veterans back in action. Among the champions from last year who will return are Harvard Lancour, 126-pound open division titlist from Manistique; Budd Holmberg, 126-pound novice champ and Harry Nelson, 118 pound novice champ, from Marquette; Vern Coutant, 175-pound novice champ, and Brian Mastaw, 147-pound novice champ, from Soo.

One of the defending champions missing from the field will be Ronnie Vanderlinden, Escanaba novice lightweight, who has been ill and unable to compete this year.

Escanaba Boxers
Other Escanaba fighters back in action are Vic Sopina, Jim Brown and Jerry Richer, all of whom advanced to the championship round before being eliminated last year. George Hurley, novice welterweight, will be making his first appearance in a Golden Gloves ring and Al Swanson, novice lightweight, will be making his first tournament start.

Large teams will be in action from Manistique, Soo and Marquette. Pat Murphy, former professional featherweight, has a stable of 10 boxers at Marquette. Ed Toyra is the Manistique coach and Al Douglas handles the Soo boxers.

The Canadian Soo will be represented by three fighters under the guidance of the veteran Tupper Toombs. Leo Legacy, Menominee-Marquette boxing coach, will have four fighters in action. Ray Mariucci will have four scrappers from Iron Mountain. Other communities with entries are Caspian, Stambaugh, Calumet and Ishpeming.

Also expected to enter is a former novice middleweight champion Ted Fellman, of Mt. Pleasant, who has completed his army service since he won a title here two years ago.

All fighters competing will receive Golden Gloves emblems while champions and runners-up will get handsome gold boxing trophies.

Fighters will range in weight from the 112 pound class to the heavyweights, with a 220 pounder from Marquette the biggest boxer competing.

Red Hot Eskymos Trim Marquette By 85 To 67

The Escanaba Eskymos were hotter than the proverbial pistol Saturday night as they wrecked the Marquette Redmen, 85-67, in an impressive display of scoring strength.

Coach Jim Betchek's Eskey quint opened with a brisk 14-point attack in the first period, stepped up the pace to 20 in the second and then moved into high gear to hit 51 points in the final two quarters.

Junior forward Bill Bolm led the Eskymos to their highest scoring output of the season with 25 points, exactly the same number he scored in his last start against the Marinette Marines. Bolm hit seven field goals and was deadly from the foul line, pouring 11 of 12 gift tosses through the nets. His biggest period was the third in which he hit three from the field and four from the foul line.

Bolm got unexpected help from reserve guard Jack Carlson, who pumped in eight field goals and two free throws for 18 points, second high for the night. Jim Beck and Ricky Erickson also hit in double figures as the Eskymos notched their sixth win against five defeats for the season. The teams battled to a 14-14 draw in the first period but the polished Eskymo quint took command in the second to pull out to a 34-27 margin at the half.

Bolm and Carlson, burned the hoop in the third period with 18 points while Erickson contributed a pair of field goals and Tom Hogan and Beck hit one each. The Eskymos had a healthy 60-48 lead going into the final period.

Escanaba's final 25 points in the fourth quarter were well distributed as reserves came off the bench to lend a hand.

The Eskymos were equally effective from the floor and the free throw line. They hit on 30 field goals and converted 25 of 34 gift shots. Marquette hit 24 field goals and 19 of 36 free throws. Bolm, Escanaba's leading scorer, boosted his total to 174 in 11 games, an average of 15.8 per game. He has scored in double figures in each Escanaba game except the season opener against Holy Name in which he failed to gain the scoring column.

The victory also kept Escanaba's home court record unblemished this season. The Eskymos have won all four of their home starts. They will return to action at the Junior High gym against the tall Stephenson Eagles on Friday, Feb. 4. In a previous match at Stephenson the Eskymos lost 69-59.

Marquette's Bee team won a 41-39 verdict in the preliminary.

Holy Name Nips Green Bay 55-53

GREEN BAY, Wis.—Three free throws in the final minutes of play here yesterday afternoon gave the Holy Name Crusaders a 55-53 victory over the Green Bay Central Catholic Cadets.

Holy Name's ability to convert from the foul line spelled the difference between victory and defeat in the hotly-contested contest. Coach Tom St. Germain's Crusaders, outscored 50-36 from the floor, took advantage of 19 personal fouls on the Cadets to score 19 points, missing 12 gift shots. Green Bay could make only three free throws, missing six, off eight Holy Name personal fouls.

The game was nip and tuck through the first period which ended 12-11 for the Cadets. Green Bay pulled ahead, 25-19, for their largest margin at the half.

Hectic Final Period
Holy Name quickly whittled away the deficit in the third period and Bill Lancour put the Crusaders ahead 34-32 midway in the quarter. A late bucket by Green Bay's Ed Stenger put the Cadets back in front, 39-38, at the end of the period.

The lead switched hands seven times in a hectic final quarter with the Crusaders going out in front for keeps with a minute and a half remaining on a field goal by Denis McGinn, making the score 52-51.

With less than a minute left to play, John Berrigan canned two free throws after being fouled by Stenger to make it 54-51. But Cadet Roy Smits scored from the floor to narrow it to 54-53. Lancour was fouled with only four seconds left to play and the Holy Name senior guard dropped in his first shot to give the Crusaders their 55-53 final margin. The Cadets got off a final-second fling at the basket but missed.

Berrigan Scores 22
Berrigan, Crusader pivotman, was held to four free throws in the first half but crammed 18 points through the nets in the second half to take scoring honors with 22. Berrigan boosted his scoring total to 315 in 12 games, an average of 26.2 per game.

Forward Arnold Henriksen chipped in with six buckets and four free throws for 16 points to follow Berrigan in the scoring department. Smits paced Green Bay with 17.

The win was the seventh straight for Holy Name and gives the Crusaders a season record of nine victories against three defeats.

The Green Bay Bee team topped Holy Name's reserves 75-69 in the preliminary in spite of 28 points by Cliff O'Donnell.

Holy Name entertains Munising Saturday night in its next start.

Braves Whip Newberry 53-34 For Fifth Conference Victory

GLADSTONE — The Gladstone Braves notched their fifth Great Lakes Conference victory against a lone defeat by downing the Newberry Indians 53-34 here Saturday night.

Coach Cappy Keil's Braves had little trouble scoring their second win over the Indians this season. Coach Karl Parker's Newberry team played without the services of two regulars, Mike Stokes and John Puckett, who were removed from the squad for disciplinary reasons last week. Stokes scored 14 and Puckett 11 points.

Saturday night the Braves moved out to a 9-3 lead in the first period and pulled steadily away for a 20-10 margin at the half. With long John Quinn leading the way, Gladstone clinched the victory in the third period with 21 points to lead 41-27 entering the final quarter. Gladstone reserves played most of the fourth period.

Quinn shared scoring honors for the night with Newberry's Villeneuve with 23 points. The Braves who travel to Norway Friday night in their next start, were in command throughout. They outscored the Indians 36-24 from the field and 17-10 from the free throw line. Each team had 16 personal fouls, the Indians losing Jack Dufflo and the Braves Larry Feldt via the foul route.

Gladstone used 11 men in the ball game and nine of them contributed to the scoring. Newberry employed a delayed type offense in contrast to its usual fast-moving attack and pressing defense.

The Gladstone Bees won a 60-37

preliminary from the Rapid River Bee team.

With winger Buddy Provo scoring three goals for the hat trick and defenseman Joe Nogalo turning in an "iron man" performance, the Escanaba Hawks Saturday night whipped the Marquette Sentinels 5-1 to move into sole possession of second place in the Northern Michigan-Ontario Hockey League standings.

Provo dented Marquette's net twice in the first period, flashing the puck past Jack Pinder after a pass across the goal mouth from Joe Ricci at 12:10. Provo repeated with less than a half minute remaining in the period on a pass from Mark Olson that was deflected by a Marquette stick.

Ricci Makes It 3-0

Ricci made it 3-0 for the hustling Hawks at 4:17 of the second period. Olson took the puck around behind the Marquette net and fed a pass to Ricci who blazed in on Pinder for an easy beat.

Brilliant Defense Game

Nogalo, the cool Escanaba defenseman, turned in a brilliant performance for the Hawks who are unbeaten in their last six starts. Nogalo played the entire game except for a 51-second rest in the closing minutes of the game.

Provo scored his third goal at 5:22 of the final period as he took a pass from defenseman Floyd Stac, flashed past way in from the side of the rink and sailed a shot into the upper far corner of the net.

The game was rough and tough with referee Si Clement handing out nine penalties. Oakie Brumm and Cud VanOverloop of Marquette and Provo of Escanaba were in the penalty box twice each.

Red Wings Wallop Canadiens By 7-1

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings unleashed their biggest scoring spree of the season Sunday night and trounced the Montreal Canadiens 7-1 before a capacity crowd of 14,938 in Olympia Stadium.

The Wings poured in all their goals in the first 32 minutes of play—five of them coming in a nine-minute burst in the second period.

The victory pulled the Wings to within one point of the league-leading Canadiens, who suffered their most humiliating defeat of this season.

Richard In Box
Glen Skov and Marcel Bonin led Detroit's surge with two goals apiece. Gordie Howe, Johnny Wilson and Marty Pavelich each scored once.

Maurice Richard tallied Montreal's only goal in the first period but it was the Rocket, strangely enough, who was primarily responsible for the Canadiens' downfall. In the second period, Richard high-sticked Vic Stasiuk and was given a five-minute penalty for drawing blood.

While he was off the ice, the Red Wings scored twice and turned a close 31 game into a rout.

Despite the one-sidedness of the score the game was closely played and referee Red Storey handed out 19 penalties.

Coach Pleased
In the dressing room, coach Jimmy Skinner of the Wings said he was "pleased" with the victory but added:

"This is the type of game which can make a team overconfident. I'm satisfied with beating the Canadiens. But now I'm worried about the Boston game, Thursday night."

Skinner, a realistic man, wasn't being overly pessimistic. He warned against a similar letdown earlier this month just before the Red Wings proceeded to lose three straight games.

Gophers Nip Purdue In Sixth Overtime

By The Associated Press
Most college basketball fans still are talking about that six-overtime cold war between Minnesota and Purdue Saturday.

The Gophers and Purdue found themselves in a sit-and-wait deal at Lafayette, Ind., before Minnesota finally broke it up 59-56. Those six overtimes—with the first four scoreless—matched the college record.

Purdue just wouldn't give up the ball in the first three extra periods, choosing to wait for a last-second shot. All three closing attempts missed. However, and it was Minnesota's turn to hold the ball in the fourth after getting the center jump.

Lose On Errors
Each hit a field goal in the fifth overtime and Purdue then took a three-point lead in the sixth. All that scoring activity rattled the Boilermakers, however, and a pair of ball-handling errors were turned into six points by the Gophers.

The victory sent Minnesota—a 102-88 winner over Purdue at Minneapolis earlier—into the Big Ten lead with a 5-2 mark.
